

Adventure without Reservation Begins at 50

When I was a younger man looking for fun and adventure, my elders told me to be patient and wait my turn. Life begins at forty. What a piece of nonsense. As far as I could tell, a person in their forties looked old and used up. And in those days someone in their fifties was middle-aged and on their way out. A person was considered old when they reached retirement, and anyone still around in their seventies was a rarity. Impatient to see and do everything. I watched my forties rapidly slip away. Finally, I applied for and received my first passport at age fifty and started my foreign adventures. The stories in this book are about some of those travels, and span thirty years of time.- The jungle of Guatemala- Climbing a killer mountain- Alone on the trail, Nepal- Paradise in Nepal- Across Africa by truck- Gorillas and volcanoes- Paddling the Zambezi River- Climbing White Giants, Peru- Picking up pieces of silver- Leaving the Inka road, Peru- Adventures in the Bolivian Jungle- Searching for giant shrimp
