

Altogether, One at a Time

What do you do when your mother makes you invite the most obnoxious kid in your class to your birthday party? - Or when you have to wait another thirty-three and a third years to see a shower of stars? - Or your parents ship you off to fat camp? - Or you have to share your private lunch hour with a girl whos mean to you just because of the color of your skin? In E. L. Konigsburgs witty and perceptive short stories, four young people cope with difficult situations and, in doing so, learn something that changes their lives.
