

Kidz Fight Back: No Bullies - No Strangers

Warning! Bullies and Strangers: My name is G. A. Shannon. I've been teaching martial arts for the last 30 years. Through those years of training I've had some great experiences and I've been able to save many lives including my own. A police officer for the last 25 years, I work with and protect children and have seen many children become victims because they were not prepared. Once in a while I see kids who escape from bullies, gang members and kidnapers by showing courage and making the right decisions, but sadly there are also stories of children who never return home and are unable to escape from these situations. Many tragedies can be prevented if children learn some basic safety tips and self-defense techniques. For this reason I'm recommending this book to you and your children. It's time to fight back. Children are the most victimized segment of our society. On average 2,185 children are reported missing each day. While both boys and girls can be abducted, more than 66% of reported child abduction victims are girls. Protecting children my chosen mission, is a lifetime responsibility for parents and guardians. At different ages the risks to children's safety changes. Some risks are constant, and some change as the child grows. While there is no guaranteed way to ensure a child's safety, parents and guardians must do what they can to decrease the risk. Parents and guardians are the key to children's safety and future. There are a few things that can be done to make our children safer. Parents and caretakers should improve their knowledge of safety concerns for their children when it comes to bullying and stranger awareness. They can improve the self-confidence and assertiveness skills of their children. As a result the children will be safer, be able to see danger signs, and stay away from potential offenders. That's the purpose of this book. Parents and caretakers can work through the contents of this book along with their children to increase awareness of the dangers of bullying and how to deal with it; the realities of stranger danger and how to keep safe from it; and the basics of self-defense. These important subjects deserve our full attention. Our children's lives are at stake. 2013 KidzFightBack.com - All Rights Reserved.
