

How to Find YOU in Your Home

How to Find YOU in Your Home is the first step in a joyful journey to a thoughtful approach that will help you discover what feels good to you and what is uniquely personal to create a feeling of security, harmony, balance and peace in your home. We are throwing the traditional rules to the curb and using instinct and emotions to replace strict logic and old school rules. When life begins to feel like a succession of consequences rather than rewards it is time to make new choices. Change begins in the home; your most private and sacred space when new ideas you have dared to dream about take on a life of their own. If you have begun to feel like these passing years have filled your mind with fear and doubt and anxiety and remorse and there is no room for joyful memories; its a new day! Were starting over right here, in this room with the very things we have to work with, we are going to begin again. This is where the fun begins! What do all these very big issues have to do with your home? Everything! Your home is a reflection of how you see yourself; it is a point of beginning where you do have control and you can determine the outcome. Pick up a pencil and pad and lets make some notes. This is about your feelings; try to prevent logic from overtaking your dreams. You will emerge as an accomplished player in the game of life!
