

The House Who Found Its Home

There once was a house that was not happy with where it lived. It was too tight, too bright and too noisy! So the house took off to find a new place to live. As it journeyed to new places it found many adventures along the way and discovered a valuable lesson. The house is a whimsical character that children are naturally drawn to. Their curiosity is aroused as they turn the pages trying to figure out what place the house is at now. The repetitive statements help the young reader learn while entertaining the youngest of children. This is a book a child will enjoy reading again and again.
