

Telegram!: Modern History as Told Through More than 400 Witty, Poignant, and Revealing Telegrams

A fascinating (USA Today) and delightfully illustrated exploration of the history of the last 150 years through its most urgent messages. Between its invention in the mid-nineteenth century and its relegation to money transfer and congratulations in the years following the Second World War, the telegraph served as the primary medium for urgent messages. Telegram! collects the most poignant and revealing communiques from the Victorian Internet. Organized into categories such as Parents and Children, Hooray for Hollywood, and Lincoln in the Telegraph Office, the telegrams range from such moving personal notes as W. C. Field's wire to his dying friend John Barrymore—You can't do this to me—to political advice, such as one voter's telegraphed suggestion to President Herbert Hoover: Vote for Roosevelt and make it unanimous. This eclectic volume is an innovative and entertaining reflection of recent history, approached through its most urgent messages.
