

Echo and Narcissus: When the Girl Who Talked Too Much Met the Boy Who Loved Himself (Plays for Children based on Ovids Metamorphoses Book 1)

This is one of a series of entertaining, funny plays for children based on Ovids Metamorphoses, suitable for class performance or private reading, for young students of the classical world of literature. Each play involves a transformation and is written in conversational English, while keeping as much as possible to the dramatic and playful spirit of Ovids original. These plays were first published in the NSW Department of Educations School Magazine. More about the award-winning author can be found at www.ursuladubosarsky.com.
