

The Post-War World: China Since 1949

This book examines the political, economic and social issues in China since the Proclamation by Mao Zedong of the Peoples Republic in 1949. Source documents are used extensively, while questions and commentary help guide the reader through difficult issues. The Post-War World series is designed to fulfil the requirements of the GCSE Modern World History Course though it can also be used as background reading and as a basis for class discussion. Alan Dures is a history teacher and author of several Batsford titles in the History in Focus and Leaders series.
